

Machine Translation Systems

Machine Translation converts text from one language to another automatically.

From rule-based systems to statistical models and neural approaches, translation has advanced significantly.

Transformer models like sequence-to-sequence with attention revolutionized translation quality.