Natural Language Processing Overview

Natural Language Processing (NLP) is the field of AI that enables machines to understand and process human language.

It includes tasks such as tokenization, parsing, sentiment analysis, summarization, and translation.

Recent advances, particularly with Transformer models, have pushed NLP to new heights.